

Pomona Valley Habitat for Humanity will begin working next in Chino Hills on a project that will include two homes for veterans. The national initiative is designed to provide housing solutions and volunteer and employment opportunities to income-qualified U.S. veterans, military service members and their families. Habitat partners with other veteran groups to assist in the search for qualified families. In addition, the homes are constructed in compliance with the American Disabilities Act.

The Chino Hills-owned homes are on the same street in the Los Serranos area. Pomona Valley Habitat for Humanity is in the process of raising funds to help build the homes.
